

Keeping them prisoner vnderneath his wings:
Yet if this seruile vſage once offend,
Go, and be free againe, as Suffolke's friend. She is going
Oh ſtay: I haue no power to let her paſſe,
My hand would free her, but my heart ſayes no.
As playes the Sunne vpon the glaſſie ſtreames,
Twinkling another counterfetted beame,
So ſeemes this gorgeous beauty to mine eyes.
Faine would I wooe her, yet I dare not ſpeake:
He call for Pen and Inke, and write my minde:
Fye De la Pole, diſable not thy ſelfe:
Haſt not a Tongue? Is he not heere?
Wilt thou be daunted at a Womans ſight?
I: Beauties Princely Maieſty is ſuch,
'Confounds the tongue, and makes the ſenſes rough.
Mar. Say Earle of Suffolke, if thy name be ſo,
What ranſome muſt I pay before I paſſe?
For I perceiue I am thy priſoner.
Suf. How canſt thou tell ſhe will deny thy ſuite,
Before thou make a triall of her loue?
M. Why ſpeak'ſt thou not? What ranſom muſt I pay?
Suf. She's beautifull; and therefore to be Wooed:
She is a Woman; therefore to be Wonne.
Mar. Wilt thou accept of ranſome, yea or no?
Suf. Fond man, remember that thou haſt a wife,
Then how can Margaret be thy Paramour?
Mar. I were beſt to leaue him, for he will not heare.
Suf. There all is marr'd: there lies a cooling card.
Mar. He talkes at random: ſure the man is mad.
Suf. And yet a diſpenſation may bee had.
Mar. And yet I would that you would anſwer me:
Suf. He win this Lady Margaret. For whom?
Why for my King: Tuſſh, that's a wooden thing.
Mar. He talkes of wood: It is ſome Carpenter.
Suf. Yet ſo my fancy may be ſatisfied,
And peace eſtabliſhed betweene theſe Realmes.
But there remains a ſcruple in that too:
For though her Father be the King of Naples,
Duke of Anion and Mayne, yet is he poore,
And our Nobility will ſcorne the match.
Mar. Heare ye Captaine? Are you not at leiſure?
Suf. It ſhall be ſo, diſdaine they ne're ſo much:
Henry is youthfull, and will quickly yeeld.
Madam, I haue a ſecret to reueale.
Mar. What though I be inthrall'd, he ſeems a knight
And will not any way diſhonor me.
Suf. Lady, vouchſafe to liſten what I ſay.
Mar. Perhaps I ſhall be reſcu'd by the French,
And then I need not craue his curteſie.
Suf. Sweet Madam, giue me hearing in a cauſe.
Mar. Tuſſh, women haue bene captiuate ere now.
Suf. Lady, wherefore talke you ſo?
Mar. I cry you mercy, 'tis but Quid pro Quo.
Suf. Say gentle Princeſſe, would you not ſuppoſe
Your bondage happy, to be made a Queene?
Mar. To be a Queene in bondage, is more vile,
Than is a ſlaue, in baſe ſeruility:
For Princes ſhould be free.
Suf. And ſo ſhall you,
If happy Englands Royall King be free.
Mar. Why what concerns his freedome vnto mee?
Suf. He vndertake to make thee Henries Queene,
To put a Golden Scepter in thy hand,
And ſet a precious Crowne vpon thy head,
If thou wilt conſcend to be my
Mar. What?

Suf. His loue.
Mar. I am vnworthy to be Henries wife.
Suf. No gentle Madam, I vnworthy am
To wooe ſo faire a Dame to be his wife,
And haue no portion in the choiſe my ſelfe.
How ſay you Madam, are ye ſo content?
Mar. And if my Father pleaſe, I am content.
Suf. Then call our Captaines and our Colours forth,
And Madam, at your Fathers Caſtle walles,
Wee'l craue a parley, to conferre with him.
Sound. Enter Reignier on the Walles.
See Reignier ſee, thy daughter priſoner.
Reig. To whom?
Suf. To me.
Reig. Suffolke, what remedy?
I am a Souldier, and vnapt to weepe,
Or to exclaime on Fortunes ſickleneſſe.
Suf. Yes, there is remedy enough my Lord,
Conſent, and for thy Honor giue conſent,
Thy daughter ſhall be wedded to my King,
Whom I with paine haue wooed and wonne thereto:
And this her eaſie held imprifonment,
Haſt gain'd thy daughter Princely libertie.
Reig. Speakes Suffolke as he thinks?
Suf. Faire Margaret knowes,
That Suffolke doth not flatter, face, or faine.
Reig. Vpon thy Princely warrant, I deſcend,
To giue thee anſwer of thy iuſt demand.
Suf. And heere I will expect thy coming.

Trumpets ſound. Enter Reignier.

Reig. Welcome braue Earle into our Territories,
Command in Anion what your Honor pleaſes.
Suf. Thanks Reignier, happy for ſo ſweet a Child,
Fit to be made companion with a King:
What anſwer makes your Grace vnto my ſuite?
Reig. Since thou doſt digne to wooe her little worth,
To be the Princely Bride of ſuch a Lord:
Vpon condition I may quietly
Enioy mine owne, the Country Maine and Anion,
Free from oppreſſion, or the ſtroke of Warre,
My daughter ſhall be Henries, if he pleaſe.
Suf. That is her ranſome, I deliuer her,
And thoſe two Counties I will vndertake
Your Grace ſhall well and quietly enioy.
Reig. And I againe in Henries Royall name,
As Deputy vnto that gracious King,
Giue thee her hand for ſigne of plighted faith.
Suf. Reignier of France, I giue thee Kingly thanks,
Because this is in Traffike of a King.
And yet me thinks I could be well content
To be mine owne Attorney in this cauſe.
He ouer then to England with this newes.
And make this marriage to be ſolemniz'd:
So farewell Reignier, ſet this Diamond ſafe
In Golden Pallaces as it becomes.
Reig. I do embrace thee, as I would embrace
The Chriſtian Prince King Henry were he heere.
Mar. Farewell my Lord, good wiſhes, praife, & praier,
Shall Suffolke euer haue of Margaret. She is going
Suf. Farewell ſweet Madam: but hearken you Margaret,
No Princely commendations to my King?
Mar. Such commendations as becomes a Maide,
A Virgin, and his Seruant, ſay to him.
Suf. Words ſweetly plac'd, and moſteſtie directed.

But Madame, I muſt trouble you againe,
Nolouing Token to his Maieſtie?
Mar. Yes, my good Lord, a pure vnſpotted heart,
Neuer yet taint with loue, I ſend the King. Kiſſe her.
Suf. And this withall.
Mar. That for thy ſelfe, I will not ſo preſume,
To ſend ſuch pecuniary tokens to a King.
Suf. Oh wert thou for my ſelfe: but Suffolke ſay,
Thou mayeſt not wander in that Labyrinth,
There Minotaurs and vgly Treafons lurke,
Solicite Henry with her wonderous praife.
Bethinke thee on her Vertues that ſurmount,
Mad naturall Graces that extinguiſh Art,
Repeate their ſemblance often on the Seas,
That when thou com'ſt to kneele at Henries ſeate,
Thou mayeſt becauſe him of his wits with wonder. Exit
Enter Yorke, Warwicke, Shephard, Pucell.
Yor. Bring forth that Sorceresse condemn'd to burne.
Shep. Ah Ione, this kills thy Fathers heart out-right,
Haue I fought euery Country farre and neere,
And now it is my chance to finde thee out,
Muſt I behold thy timeleſſe cruell death:
Ah Ione, ſweet daughter Ione, Ile die with thee.
Pucel. Decrepit Miſer, baſe ignoble Wretch,
I am deſcended of a gentler blood.
Thou art no Father, nor no Friend of mine.
Shep. Out, out: My Lords, and pleaſe you, 'tis not ſo
I did beget her, all the Pariſh knowes:
Her Mother liueth yet, can reſiſte
She was the firſt fruite of my Bach'ler-ſhip.
War. Graceleſſe, wilt thou deny thy Parentage?
Yorke. This argues what her kinde of life hath beene,
Wicked and vile, and ſo her death concludes.
Shep. Fye Ione, that thou wilt be ſo obſtacle:
God knowes, thou art a collop of my fleſh,
And for thy ſake haue I ſhed many a teare:
Deny me not, I prythee, gentle Ione.
Pucel. Pezant auant. You haue ſuborn'd this man
Of purpoſe, to obſcure my Noble birth.
Shep. 'Tis true, I gaue a Noble to the Priſt,
The morne that I was wedded to her mother.
Kneele downe and take my bleſſing, good my Gyrl.
Wilt thou not ſtoope? Now curſed be the time
Of thynatiuitie: I would the Milke
Thy mother gaue thee when thou ſuck'ſt her breaſt,
Had bin a little Rats-bane for thy ſake.
Or elſe, when thou diſt keepe my Lambes a-field,
I wiſh ſome rauinous Wolfe had eaten thee.
Doſt thou deny thy Father, curſed Drab?
O burne her, burne her, hanging is too good. Exit.
Yorke. Take her away, for ſhe hath liu'd too long,
To fill the world with vicious qualities.
Puc. Firſt let me tell you whom you haue condemn'd;
Not me, begotten of a Shephard Swaine,
But iſſued from the Progeny of Kings.
Vertuous and Holy, choſen from aboue,
By inſpiration of Celeſtiall Grace,
To worke exceeding myacles on earth.
I neuer had to do with wicked Spirits.
But you that are polluted with your luſtes,
Stain'd with the guiltleſſe blood of Innocents,
Corrupt and tainted with a thouſand Vices:
Becauſe you want the grace that others haue,
You iudge it ſtraight a thing impoſſible
To compaſſe Wonders, but by helpe of diuels.

No miſconceyued, Ione of Aire hath beene
A Virgin from her tender infancy,
Chafte, and immaculate in very thought,
Whole Maiden-blood thus rigorouſly effus'd,
Will cry for Vengeance, at the Gates of Heauen.
Yorke. I, I: away with her to execution.
War. And hearken ye firſt: becauſe ſhe is a Maide,
Spare for no Faggots, let there be enow:
Place barrells of pitch vpon the ſatall ſtake,
That ſo her torture may be ſhortned.
Puc. Will nothing turne your vnrelenting hearts?
Then Ione diſcouer thine infirmity,
That wantanteth by Law, to be thy priuiledge.
I am with childe ye bloody Homicides:
Murder not then the Fruite within my Wombe,
Although ye hale me to a violent death.
Yor. Now heauen forſend, the holy Maid with child?
War. The greateſt miracle that ere ye wrought, no
Is all your ſtrict preciſeneſſe come to this?
Yorke. She and the Dolphin haue bin iugling,
I did imagine what would be her refuge.
War. Well go too, we'll haue no Baſtards liue,
Eſpecially ſince Charles muſt Father it.
Puc. You are decey'd, my childe is none of his,
It was Alanſon that inioy'd my loue.
Yorke. Alanſon that notorious Macheuile?
It dyes, and if it had a thouſand liues,
Puc. Oh giue me leaue, I haue deluded you,
'Twas neyther Charles, nor yet the Duke I nam'd,
But Reignier King of Naples: that preuayl'd.
War. A married man, that's moſt intollerable.
Yor. Why here's a Gyrl: I think ſhe knowes not wel
(There were ſo many) whom ſhe may accuſe.
War. It's ſigne ſhe hath beene liberall and free.
Yor. And yet forſooth ſhe is a Virgin pure,
Strumpet, thy words condemne thy Brat, and thee:
Vſe no intreaty, for it is in vaine.
Pu. Then lead me hence: with whom I leaue my curſe,
May neuer glorious Sonne reflex his beames
Vpon the Country where you make abode:
But darkneſſe, and the gloomy ſhade of death
Inuiſion you, till Miſcheefe and Diſpaire,
Driue you to break your necks, or hang your ſelues. Exit
Enter Cardinall.
Yorke. Breake thou in peeces, and conſume to aſhes,
Thou fowle accuſed miniſter of Hell.
Car. Lord Regent, I do greeete your Excellence.
With Letters of Commiſſion from the King,
For know my Lords, the States of Chriſtendome,
Mou'd with remorse of theſe out-ragious broyles,
Haue earnestly implor'd a generall peace,
Betwixt our Nation, and the aſpyring French;
And heere at hand, the Dolphin and his Train
Approacheth, to conferre about ſome matter.
Yorke. Is all our trauell turn'd to this effect,
After the ſlaughter of ſo many Peeres,
So many Captaines, Gentlemen, and Soldiers,
That in this quarrell haue beene ouerthrowne,
And ſold their bodies for their Countries benefit,
Shall we at laſt conclude effeminate peace?
Haue we not loſt moſt part of all the Townes,
By Treason, Falſhood, and by Treacherie,
Our great Progenitors had conquered:
Oh Warwicke, Warwicke, I foreſee with greefe
The vtter loſſe of all the Realme of France.
War. Be patient Yorke, if we conclude a Peace
